WOMEN TO PLAN
JEWISH CHARITY*"Sacrifice" Committee Will Be Formed Tuesday to Aid War Sufferers.*"TAG DAY" THURSDAY

District Workers Will Speak at Alexandria on Wednesday Night to Urge Contributions.

A "sacrifice" committee of women, members of which will stint themselves of their pin and bonbon money to buy food, clothing and shelter for war suffering Jews of Europe, will be organized at a meeting in the Eighth Street Temple tomorrow afternoon. The committee will be similar to the "women of the hour" organization in New York.

The committee will be one of the developments of the nation-wide campaign to raise money for the European charity. The organization will exist until the close of the war, perhaps even until the permanent rehabilitation of European Jews has been brought about.

Another development of the campaign in the District will be "tag day" on Thursday, the national contribution day. Hundreds of pretty girls will sell tags for the benefit of Jewish war sufferers. The committee arranging the tag day program is headed by David Alpher, and will meet this week prior to the event. Full details of the plan have yet to be arranged.

Miss Mabel Boardman, of the American Red Cross; Dr. Abraham Simon, secretary of the District committee of Jews conducting the relief campaign here; Simon Wolf, chairman; Julius I. Peyer, treasurer and members of the House and Senate will be among the Washingtonians at a mass meeting in Alexandria on Wednesday night, arranged as a supplement to the meeting here last Thursday. Residents of Alexandria will be appealed to for contributions for the relief of European Hebrews.

Clergymen of Washington extended notices of the President's appeal and proclamation from their pulpits yesterday, calling attention to Thursday as the national contribution day.

DARE FOR POLICE ON

Escapes from Furniture Store, Though Fourteen Policemen Endeavor to Round Him Up.

"Eventually! Why not now?" So was the hope, and the taunt, held out to a cold-blooded burglar, who, after advertising button in the lapel of a coat left behind by a burglar who escaped from the P. J. Nee furniture store, issued his "entire satisfaction" early Sunday morning, just before a cordon of fourteen policemen was thrown about the building.

He was seen in an office of the store by the manager, C. E. King, and T. J. Nee, nephew of the owner, shortly after midnight Saturday. The burglar, his coat off and sleeves rolled back, was busy at a desk, writing, when he was discovered. He was an employee, working late over his books. But the arrival of Manager King and Mr. Nee spoiled the intruder's plans. King telephoned the police, while Nee and two passers-by stood guard. Fourteen policemen, including reserves from two precincts, were at the building in five minutes.

The police entered and searched the building. They searched again, and then some more, but the burglar had escaped. His coat, containing a name in an inside pocket, is a clue to his identity. He stole $150 worth of stamps.

COLLEGIATE CLUB WILL HOLD FEBRUARY DANCE

Literary and Musical Program Follows Business Meeting in Eighth Street Temple Vestry Rooms.

The Collegiate Club of Washington held its regular monthly business meeting and social in the vestry rooms of the Eighth Street Temple last night. Frederick M. Polmann, president of the organization, presided.

Plans were made for a dance to be held by the club at the Ebbitt House on February 21.

Mr. Polmann, in his address on "The Alma, Ambitions and Aspirations of the Club," explained how the club was organized seven years ago. Graduates and men attending college are eligible for membership. The purpose of the club is to foster friendship among Jewish college men.

Following the business meeting, a literary and musical program was rendered. Dr. J. A. Friedman gave a violin solo; Morris Glueck contributed a number of recitations; Miss Emma Cohen sang, accompanied on the piano by Miss Dora Weiss, and Charles Gelsenfeld gave a recitation.

Rights of Nations Defined
By International Law Body

American Institute Formally Pronounces an International Declaration of Independence, Defining Rights of Neutrals as Well as of Belligerents—Document Has Great International Significance.

A formal pronouncement, laying down for the acceptance of the entire world the principles of right and justice which, in the opinion of the most eminent authorities of the twenty-one republics of Western Hemisphere, should be followed in the conduct of international affairs in order to preserve peace, has been made by the American Institute of International Law. The document is entitled "The Declaration of the Rights of Nations," and is founded on the principles of the American Declaration of Independence, adopted July 4, 1776.

The promulgation of the declaration, which defines the right of neutrals as well as belligerents, and which might be characterized as an "international declaration of independence," was made known here yesterday in an announcement by Dr. James Brown Scott, president of the institute, chairman of the joint State and navy neutrality board and secretary of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace. It was made at the first session of the institute, held in connection with and under the auspices of the second Pan-American Scientific Congress on January 8, but its publication was withheld until today.

Following the announcement of Secretary Lansing's suggestions that the institute study the question of neutral rights and duties, and the publication of the memorandum in which he expressed his attitude toward circumstances under which several of the American governments have suffered keenly through the operations of European belligerents, the declaration is regarded here as having the greatest international significance.

Under the fundamental principles thus set forth it would be impossible for any nation to be in effect and observed by the nations, to have a recurrence of the invasion of Belgium or the submarine attacks upon American life on the high seas.

In the drafting of the set of principles there was, however, no thought of dealing with any specific case or reflecting upon any single nation.

The pronouncement is put out at this time to afford the basis for discussion and preparatory to the more formal movement that is almost certain to come at the conclusion of the war in the direction of a more explicit understanding among the nations on the great principles of international law.

Articles of Declaration.
The five articles, without the preamble and citations of famous legal decisions, follow:

1. Every nation has the right to exist, to protect and to conserve its existence.

CONGRESSIONAL UNION
PLANS BIRTHDAY PARTY
Women Will Meet in Cameron House Next Sunday Afternoon to Hold "House-warming."

The Congressional Union will give a "house-warming" next Sunday afternoon to mark the formal opening of its new headquarters in the old Cameron house, and to celebrate the anniversary of its work, begun in January, 1913. Mrs. William Kent, Mrs. Amos Pinchot, Miss Frances Joffe, Miss Elsie Hill and Mrs. Lawrence Lewis will speak in the parlors of the Cameron House on the plans of the union for the coming year.

At a reception preceding the meetings, Mrs. Robert Baker, Mrs. M. L. Follette, Mrs. William Kent, Mrs. Frank W. Mondell, Mrs. E. W. Roberts, Mrs. Julius Kahn, Mrs. Nina E. Allender, Mrs. Charles Boughton Wells, Mrs. Henry Mackay, Mrs. George Rublee, Mrs. John Jay White, Mrs. George Thacher Guernsey, Miss Maud Younger and Mrs. Harvey W. Wiley will be in the receiving line. Miss Edith J. Goode will preside at tea, which will be served at 4 o'clock.

Members of the committee on arrangements are Mrs. Robert Baker, Mrs. George Odell, Mrs. Nevil Monroe Hopkins, Mrs. W. Thompson Burck and Mrs. Randolph Keith Forrest.

The Congressional Union holds an "anniversary meeting" every year in January to announce and discuss a plan of political work for the coming year. The first meeting arranged by Miss Alice Paul in Washington was held on January 1, 1913, to announce the suffrage procession on March 3, which inaugurated a vigorous and practical campaign for the adoption of the Federal suffrage amendment. At the anniversary meeting held one year later, in the home of Mrs. William Kent, $3,000 was pledged to forward the work of passing the suffrage amendment through Congress. The second anniversary meeting, held in the Carnegie ballroom, in January, 1915, took place two days before a vote upon suffrage was to take place in the House of Representatives, for the first time in the history of the country.

Dealers in soda fountain supplies, except ice cream, say that the nationwide increase of prohibition is apparently reflected in the business for them, the demand having increased about $1,000,000 in each of the last two years.

Kafka's F at TenthOPEN PREACHING MISSION.

Begin Eight Day Effort to Arouse Religious Zeal.

A preaching mission, which will last eight days was opened yesterday at the All Souls' Memorial Episcopal Church, Connecticut and Cathedral avenues northwest. The mission is being conducted in connection with a nationwide campaign of the church to arouse religious zeal.

Rev. H. H. D. Sterrett, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church of Columbus, Ohio, and a son of Rev. Dr. J. MacBride Sterrett, pastor of All Souls' Church, preached the opening service in the morning was "The Need of God," while in the evening he spoke on "The Master's Answer."

Services will be conducted daily at 11 a. m. and 8 p. m. On Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock a special children's service will be held.

TO CONTINUE REVIVAL.

Colored People Show Great Interest in Services.

The interest shown by the colored people in the revival started on New Year's at the Cosmopolitan Baptist Church, colored, by Rev. Simon P. Drew, evangelist, under the auspices of the National Colored Evangelistic Ministers' Alliance of America, has caused an extension in the announced program. Instead of closing on February 6, the meetings will continue to February 20. According to the leaders of the revival more than 10,000 persons have attended the church since the revival was opened.
